KEYNOTE SPEAKER

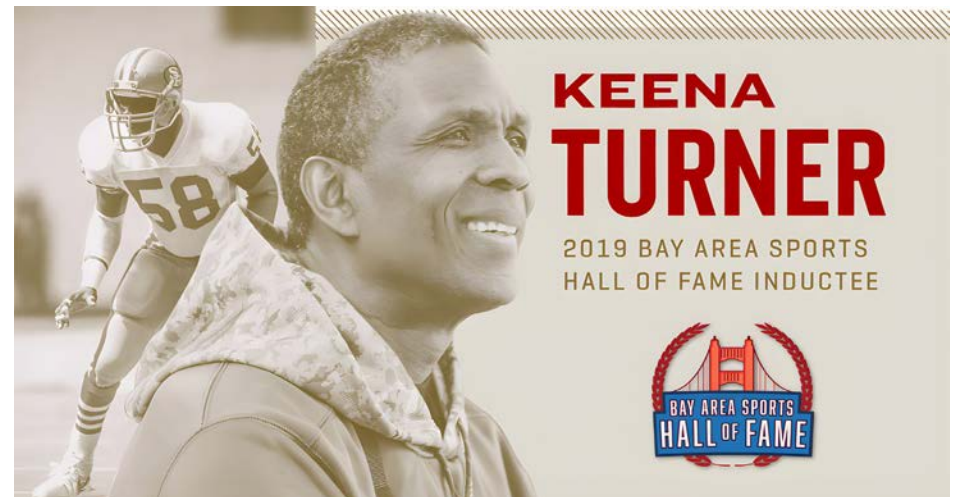

Keena Turner, San Francisco 49ers Super Bowl Champion

For more than three decades, Turner has been a part of the 49ers as both a player and member of the team’s front office. He has spent the previous 10 seasons (2008-17) as the vice president of football affairs. Originally selected in the second round (39th overall) in the 1980 NFL Draft by San Francisco, Turner played in 153 games with the 49ers over 11 seasons (1980-90). A member of the 49ers 10-year Club, Turner was selected to the Pro Bowl in 1985 and is a four-time Super Bowl champion (XVI, XIX, XXIII and XXIV).

Following his playing career, Turner was inducted into the Purdue University Intercollegiate Hall of Fame in 2011 and the Jewish Sports Hall of Fame Northern California in 2012. In 2019, he was also inducted into the Bay Area Sports Hall of Fame.

Turner’s dedication to excellence has not been limited to the playing field. He has been a constant supporter of Family House in San Francisco for over 30 years and he has also hosted The Keena Turner Boys and Girls Clubs Golf Tournament for each of the last 26 years and the event has raised over $5 million.

Turner and his wife, Linda, have three children – Sheena, Ella and Miles.

2:00 pm – 3:00 pm What Neuroimaging Can and Cannot Answer California West Room

We live in a time of dazzling advances in neuroscience. Optogenetics allow researchers to turn individual neurons on and off with light. Modern electron microscopy combined with computer reconstruction allow us to see details of the brain at the molecular level. And in the media and our own experiences as patients it is routine to see CT scans and MRIs. Advances in MRI have been particularly impressive, generating entirely new ways to see brain function (fMRI, rs-fMRI) and structure (SWI, DTI). However, there are common misperceptions that allow neuroimaging to be used to mislead in court. What can be reliably discerned from a brain image? Dr. Octavio Choi, Clinical Associate Professor at Stanford University School of Medicine and Founder of the Stanford Forensic Psychiatry Fellowship Program, will speak from his experience as a forensic neuropsychiatrist and neurolaw expert. His discussion will provide a brief overview of the above-mentioned imaging modalities and how they work, and by way of case examples reveal both the power and limitations of modern neuroimaging in the court.

3:15 pm – 4:15 pm Construction Trends in Commercial-to-Home Conversions California West Room

Based on recent news of several conversions in the Bay Area, there appears to be a big appetite for converting now-empty office buildings into residential housing. Using the Covid-induced vacancies to help solve the bay area's housing affordability crisis appears to be a no-brainer but there are challenges with a successful conversion. San Francisco based developer Emerald Fund repurposed a 29-floor office space that housed the California State Automobile Association and converted the office building into modern residential tower. The converted residential tower is now a state of the art 418-unit complex known as 100 Van Ness in San Francisco's mid-market neighborhood. 100 Van Ness represents the largest office to residential conversion in SF and we will discuss this project as a case study. Our panel will share insights from a commercial builder, architect and defense counsel regarding risks related to office conversions.

4:30 pm – 5:30 pm Ramifications Regarding Request for Admissions & UBER RICO Litigation and Plaintiff's Inflated Claimed Medical Specials

Georgian Room

Requests for Admissions can be a powerful tool used in litigation and at trial. They can be used to streamline issues that are to be presented at trial. However, they also carry significant risks. The Honorable Justice Halim Dhanidina (Ret.), Priya Navaratnasingham, and Linda Yen will discuss the ramifications of requests for admissions including the benefits of propounding the requests; use of admissions at trial; and the potential, and serious, risks and penalties for a responding party. By understanding and strategically utilizing requests for admissions, attorneys can enhance their litigation strategy and avoid pitfalls at the time of trial.

Track C – FUTURE (MCLE – 1.0 hour General credit)

4:30 pm – 5:30 pm What to Do When Post-Crash Safety Inspection Report Gets It Wrong: A Case Study on the Data Q Process

California East Room

This presentation will look at an actual crash case in which the police post-crash safety inspection identified out-of-service violations for the involved commercial vehicle. In reporting those violations, the inspection report created risk to the commercial carrier and set the foundation for a manslaughter charge to be brought against the driver. We'll discuss how to analyze an inspection report for carrier and driver risk, how an expert inspection provides the foundation for challenging reported violations, how to appeal violations through the DataQ process, and what an amended inspection report means for risk exposure and potential for criminal prosecution.
